

Autumn Seminar

Rather than focus on one particular aspect, we have chosen to base our first seminar of the year on the twin themes of

Introductions and Welcomes

Our goal will be to introduce you to the range of possibilities we offer, both in types of plants and in services.

Feedback from last year's seminar participants made us realise how many were unaware of the extent of our current operation, saying they needed to return to discover what they had been missing.

This seminar should provide something for everyone – the home gardener, landscaper, developer, lifestyle block owner, or public body.

Join us at 4 p.m. on Tuesday, May 20.

Let us welcome you with mulled wine and nibbles.

Let us introduce you

to Wes Bycroft, our new Manager, to areas of the nursery that are of particular interest,
to the range of plants and services that we offer,
to a friendly group of people who share common interests.

Let us welcome in the new planting season, knowing that Oratia Native Plant Nursery can help you make the season a successful one.

This will be an outdoor function. While there will be some shelter, come prepared for outdoor conditions and some walking on gravel paths. Should the day be overcast, you may like to bring some form of light to fend off the darkness (and focus on any refreshments remaining at the end).

Seminars will begin at 4 p.m. Allowing time to register before this will ensure a prompt start.

Come early if you are able and check out our extensive stock, now looking great and ready for a good home. Or take a ramble through the grounds for inspiration.

RSVP giving names and a contact phone number by Friday, 16 May.
Numbers Limited.

Regards,
The Oratia Native Plant Nursery Team
