

Spring Seminar

GROUNDCOVERS

Nature abhors a vacuum.

Groundcovers can fill this vacuum in a way that enhances your landscaping, providing a subtle background or an attention-seeking palette of colours and textures.

This seminar will focus on a range of plants under 50cm, both flat and spreading, which will help you keep out the uninvited species that love to fill a vacuum.

Join us at 4.30 pm on Tuesday September 23 to explore the many possibilities.

Drinks, nibbles and like-minded company provided.

This will be an outdoor function. While there will be some shelter, come prepared for outdoor conditions and some walking on gravel paths.

Seminars will begin at 4.30 pm. To ensure a prompt start, please allow time before this to register and to unwind with a drink and a bite.

Come early if you are able and check out our extensive stock, now looking great and ready for a good home. Or take a ramble through the grounds for inspiration.

RSVP giving names and a contact phone number by Friday 19 September.
Numbers limited.
