

Spring Seminar

GRASSES

Once despised by 'real gardeners', grasses are finally receiving the recognition they deserve.

Grasses and grass-like plants are many and varied. From dry, exposed sites to wetlands, each species has its niche. Wind-movement, seed-heads, colour and texture all affect the way they contribute to a landscape.

Join us at 4.30 pm on Tuesday October 21
and see for yourself the wide range of possibilities.

Drinks, nibbles and like-minded company provided.

This will be an outdoor function. While there will be some shelter, come prepared for outdoor conditions and some walking on gravel paths.

Seminars will begin at 4.30 pm. To ensure a prompt start, please allow time before this to register and to unwind with a drink and a bite.

Come early if you are able and check out our extensive stock, now looking great and ready for a good home. Or take a ramble through the grounds for inspiration.

RSVP giving names and a contact phone number by Friday 17 October.
Numbers limited.
